“Waldorf Education for All” is a 45-minute, high-quality film production showing active classes in four public Waldorf schools, including interviews with teachers, administrators, students and parents. A production of Hagens Recording Studios, the film is coordinated by Eugene Schwartz and produced by Sam Russell. It is an extraordinary tool for communicating an experience of the public Waldorf classroom to prospective families and funders. The film retails for $20, but a special price is available to Alliance schools—10 DVDs for $100 plus $10 shipping. A complimentary 11th copy will be included if the purchasing school agrees to provide this copy for free to its authorizing district.
